Here at Burgess, we're always listening to the needs of our customers, designing and manufacturing high-quality furniture for the hospitality industry from our state-of-the-art factory in South West London.

One clear need in our industry right now has been the call for more flexible furniture solutions to help adapt to new social distancing measures but also offering a modern, clean look.

Enter Open Concept, our new range of contemporary bedroom furniture, designed specifically for our clients with options to suit different layouts and needs.

Chair featured Tiani 02/4

Design by Peter Roth

Open Concept is an ideal solution for hotel bedrooms with an awkward layout, for rooms with built-in alcoves. This collection allows clients to order the specified requirements for their space. With a collection including a desk, two different height coffee tables and a side table, this collection is sure to make an impact.

Design by Peter Roth

The collection features a multi-purpose “open” wardrobe which is made to order and can be specified to fit any space. It can also be modified to become a shelving unit only or with clothing rails at various lengths, depending on requirements. Here we can see the collection making the most of its space by being a room divider, a wardrobe and shelving unit. In addition, there’s a matching desk, coffee table – with two height options – and a side table that can also fit neatly over a sofa.

Seating featured Junea Sofa and the Junea 4 Star A-Cross Base

Chair featured CasuElle® 19/3A

Design by David Hill including Peter Roth's A-Fix table

The A-style range from the Open Concept collection includes a fixed table, which will allow for a more permanent study/work environment whilst keeping all its style. For a more playful, younger feel a bent square tube work is used for the wardrobe and bedside table in this student residential bedroom. Each quality piece comes with a choice of laminate surfaces while frames are made from lightweight steel, and can be finished in any solid colour, including Burgess Furniture's new Architectural collection.
